UNCOVERING ARCHAEOLOGY

Welcome to archaeological field school! Today, you will be asked to do some digging into the past. You will work in a small group of social studies scholars to analyze an assemblage (collection) of artifacts found in a specific context (layer of soil).

As you evaluate the objects, you will make inferences about the lives of the individuals who might have left these artifacts behind. As you think about the objects, consider the following factors: age, gender, values, occupation, time period, social status, etc. You must make at least EIGHT inferences about the individual and his or her life.
